County Gains New Oil Well

By Lloyd Albertson

Milam County has gained a new oilwell, which produced 80 barrels per day on potential test, and possibly a second well, according to information released late last week.

The two completions ended a lull in drilling activity in the county that started last winter.

The new oiler is the No. 1 Noack. It was scheduled by Texas Land & Trading Company of Round Rock, a new operator in the Milam oil patch. Location is on a 1376 acre lease in the James Reese Survey and about four miles southeast of Rockdale. It also is approximately two and one-half miles south of the Minerva-Rockdale shallow field and in the vicinity of the Milbur Field.

The Noack was spudded March 22; Lambert Hollub Drilling Company was the contractor. It is bottomed at 2,050 feet. Production is from the Navarro, and on potential test it made 80 barrels of 42 gravity oil and no water a day through perforations at 1,960-2,012 feet on 12/64 inch choke. The well has been put on pump. it was drilled tight- that is, no information was released about it until potential figures were filed.

The second wildcat reported completed is located in the Cherokee-Navarro Field three miles east, southeast of Milano. It was scheduled on April 4 by BLOCO and is that company's No. 1 Garland Westbrook. Location is on a 556 acre lease in James Welch Survey. Drill site is 3,400 feet northwest of the Byron Rose No. 1 W. G. Westbrook, a good oilwell drilled a couple of years ago.

Lambert Hollub Drilling Company also was the contractor on this wildcat.

The No. 1 Garland Westbrook was scheduled as an Austin Chalk test, and was permitted to 5,700 feet. After the wildcat was spudded on May 4, however, it was drilled only to 3,100 feet total depth. It ran IES took sidewall cores, and has 5 1/2 inch pipe set to 3,050 feet.

There is some speculation among the oil fraternity that when the wildcat reached the Navarro, usually encountered around 3,100 feet in that field, it found some good oil shows, and BLOCO decided to complete it at that depth rather than drilling it on down to the Austin Chalk, which is still a new and unfamiliar formation in Milam County. This is only a surmise, since BLOCO has released little information about its wildcat, including potential test figures--if, in fact, a potential has yet been run.

The two new well completions are only the forerunner, according to oil patch rumor, of increased drilling activity with more wildcats to be scheduled in the Milam County area in the near future.

BEST MONEY MANAGER-Mary Lee Graham of Thorndale was named first place winner in the 4-H Roundup. Mary Lee was one of approximately 1,800 teens competing for top honors in some 33 contests during Roundup June 6 at Texas A&M University.

Deadline Nears For Highway Sign Permit

The Texas Highway Beautification Act, in effect since June, 1972, requires owners of signs within 660 feet of any interstate or federal aid highways to get a permit from the highway department for each sign, unless it is an on premises sign.

The deadline is June 30, 1973.

The City of Cameron ordinance requires that "no outdoor advertising display sign" shall be erected, constructed, altered or maintained until after permit for same has been issued by the building officials.

All signs for which a permit is required, together with all their supports, braces, guy wires and anchors shall be kept in repair and shall be painted at least once every two years, according to the ordinance.

Therefore all obsolete, dilapidated, faded signs of any type, whether on premises or off premises, shall be immediately removed. No signs erected by an individual or business, non-profit organization, church, etc., are allowed to remain on public property.

Both license and bond applications can be obtained from Right of Way Division, Texas Highway Department, P. O. Box 5075, Austin, 78763, or any Highway Department district office. The Bryan district office may be reached by P. O. Box 3249 or 1300 N. Texas Avenue, Bryan, 77801.

Signs advertising the sale or lease of property upon which they are located or related solely to activities conducted on the property are exempted for official purposes by Federal, State, and local governmental agencies and, in some cases, those posted by churches and nonprofit service organizations.

Fete Officials Report On Contest Winners

A crowd estimated to be in the thousands was on hand Friday and Saturday for the fourth annual Folk Fete, held at National Guard Armory.

Food booths reported sellouts of food, serving thousands of sausages, hamburgers, tamales and other goodies. A "moonwalk" for the kiddies also did a record business, as the children jumped, slipped and slid on the special "air mattress."

Fete officials reported about $4000 gross from the fete, and the net profit to Folk Fete Inc. will be about $1000, to be used for next year's fete.

In Saturday's parade, trophies were presented to the Taylor float in the out of town category, and to the Fleur De Lis Garden Club for the local entry, a burro decorated with flowers.

In the fiddlers contest, John Dodd of Milano won the overall championship by besting Archie Donaho, winner of the over 60 title. Dodd won the under 60 championship.

Second place in the under 60 group was Norman Solomon of Rhome and third place was E. A. Brandin of Monroe, La. Archie Simmons of Thorndale won second place in the over 60 group and J. L. Carroll of Humble was third.

The domino tournament was won by a father and son team from Maraksville. Joe Vansa and his son took first place while Don Lemon and Willie Glaser won second place.

In the tractor pull held at Wilson-Ledbetter Park, cash prizes of $50 and $25 were awarded to first and second place winners in each weight division, and a trophy went to third place winners.

Up to 5,000 lbs. - First place, Carl Grothe, second place, Robert Lehmann. In the 5, 000 to 7,000 division Clifford Whiteley was first, Robert Lehmann second and Robert Fisher third.

Change Told In Blood Program

Persons living in Milam County who receive blood at Scott and White Hosital, Temple, will have to notify blood officials of the usage, as the hospital will no longer furnish a list to the Central Texas Red Cross Blood Bank.

Mrs. Glenda Moseley, local blood program chirman, said the patient or patient's family should notify her or the Red Cross Center at Waco whenever blood is used at Scoott and White.

Mrs. Moseley may be reached at 697-2569 in Cameron. The Waco Center can be reached at P. O. BOX 3260 at Waco or by calling Mary Moore at 752-1607. The information should include the patient's name and how many units of blood were used.

Local Library Receives Grant

Cameron Public Library has received a grant of $1,000 from federal Library Services and Construction Act funds administered by the Texas State Library. It is one of 188 libraries in the state with local support that qualified them for the LSCA grants.

Wayne Mann, president of the Cameron Library Board, said the funds will be used for supplies and equipment, according to LSCA guidelines. The board will discuss use of the funds at future meetings.

In discussing the LSCA program, Dr. Dorman H. Winfrey, director of the Texas State Library, pointed out the importance of the grants as incentive for improved local support.

Wild Duck Finds Home In Chimney

A wild duck and her mate fly from a nearby pond to the Jim Spoons house every evening, the duck landin g on the chimney edge while her mate circles the roof. With a flutter of wings the duck lifts to just above the chimney opening, folds her wings under and drops free-form, about 5 feet straight down into the chimney.

The Spoons, who live at Jackson St. and the Marlow Road, first noticed the daily pattern about 5 weeks ago. A climb to the roof and peek down the chimney revealed a well padded nest with about 6 duck eggs.

Since that time the store house of eggs has grown to about 30 with duck down protecting layers of eggs in the narrow opening.

The Spoons, wno fear the wild ducks may be shot before the eggs are hatched, say they have brought friends more familiar with wildlife to ascertain that they were in fact wild ducks.

"No one can imagine why they picked a place like this to build a nest," Jim Spoon said. "But it is amazing to watch that duck lift off the chimney and then drop straight down. It's even more of a job for her getting back out."

Travis Homecoming

The annual Travis Homecoming will be held Sunday, June 24 at St. Ann's Church Center in Rosebud. Registration will begin at 10:30 a.m. Classes of 1921 through 1924 will be honored. Bring a basket lunch to be served at noon. All ex-students, former teachers and friends are welcome.

Students Return From Thailand Schools

By Kathryn Kahler

"Living abroad, you soon learn that the American way' isn't always the best way," said Pat Riley, who, along with her family, has lived in Thailand.

"If you advertise that the American way is the best way, you'll cut yourself off from the country, and there is so much to be learned about Thailand as well as one's self," she continued.

Pat and her brother Randy returned to Cameron from Thailand in late January after spending fifteen months there. Her parents, both Cameron natives, are still in Thailand and plan to return in the near future. Their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Peed and Mrs. Sophie Riley, all live in Cameron.

TOP TEACHERS

Pat graduated from high school in Bangkok , Thailand in the spring of 1972. She and her brother attended an international American school where they followed a course of study similar to one in a school in the United States. "They were the same courses but a different enviroment. We had top teachers--not just scholastically, but in their thinking and in their teaching methods. I think I learned more in one semester there than in all the rest of my high school career," said Pat.

"The school there also has a higher scholastic standard than many schools here because when you're overseas, they expect you to be smarter. Also they are trying to prepare the students to return to American universities," said Eric Johnson from Neenah, Wisc., an American Field Service exchange student Pat met in Thailand and who is now visiting her in Cameron.

"You also gain more ease in being among people and accepting people for what they are instead of what you think they should be. When American kids are somewhere abroad, they all have something in common, and reach out for each other. You feel the need to know someone from the same country you're from," said Pat. "I met several students there from Copperas Cove, Waco, San Antonio, Dallas, and just all over Texas. There are lots of Texans there."

RACE NO PROBLEM

"You have all kinds of friends because there are kids from so many different places. Race is no problem because we were all a minority among the Thais," said Eric. "Everyone just sticks together."

Pat emphasized that Thailand is a land of contrasts as well as a land of smiles. "Whenever you go somewhere, people are friendly. They don't let things bother them."

American teenagers gather at the American Teen Club organized by the Army for children whose parents are working in Thailand. "That's where Americans meet each other and have some place to socialize," said Pat. They have dances every Saturday night as well as movies several nights a week.

Thai teenagers do not date as do teenagers in the United States. "In Thailand, you'll see two boys walking down the street holding hands or two girls never a girl and a boy. However, Americans abroad date other Americans."

LIFE IS SLOWER

Though life in Thailand is quite sophisticated, "it's slower than in the United States. People don't seem to be rushing around as much as here. Also there are lots of little shops where you bargain for everything you buy," said Pat. Everything is so much cheaper. Eric told about a double knit suit with Thai silk trim and a Thai silk tie he had tailored for less than $30.

Pat and her brother have been living with their grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Riley since their return to the United States in January. Randy has been attending Yoe High School. Pat will attend Bauder Fashion College in Arlington in September. She plans to major in interior design.

Before moving to Thailand, they lived in Alvin, Texas while their father was working for NASA. Pat attended school in Cameron during the first and fourth grades. Before graduating from high school, she had attended fifteen different schools.

SCHOOL MATES- Randy and Pat Riley and Eric Johnson have all attended school in Thailand. Randy and Pat returned to Cameron last January. Eric, a friend Pat met in Thailand is in Cameron visiting. The dress and shirt Pat and Eric are wearing are Chieng Mai, named for the northern capitol of Thailand. Styles and patterns such as these are sent all over the world.

Fete Formula Working

Folk Fete by attendance of about 10,000 and by gross dollars of about $4,000 rang up its largest success in the June 8-9 observance.

The gross figure does not include sales for food at the 15 or more food booths or for art and crafts at the 13 others. Folk Fete, Inc., the parent non-profit corporation, receives a fee for booth space, but no other accounting on sales from these booths.

Attendance is hard to measure except by estimate and difference in sales of various items. The parade was about a mile long on a mile parade route Saturday morning and about 4,000 to 5,000 saw it downtown. Most agreed it was the longest parade since the Cameron 1946 Centennial.

That many more people, probably more went to the Fete grounds at National Guard Armory Friday night and Saturday, beside a few hundred who watched the crowning of a beauty queen Thursday night.

These figures, compared to previous income estimates and crowd turnout for food and art booths about half the 1973 number, show Folk Fete found a working formula of variety and entertainment continuity.

In short, this complex, two-day festival is working. It is described as unique because no other fete gathers together the variety of ethnic background, music and interest. It was put together in one location.

Area publicity was heavy and favorable. And Folk Fete was fun for thousands who helped make the crowds impressive.

The fifth Folk Fete will be that much easier. Profit from the 1973 gross will be plowed back into additional booths, auxiliary equipment, operating capital.

In terms of area good will and publicity, Folk Fete is serving Cameron well. And it is fun.

Ag Secretary Visits Cen-Tex...

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz was in Central Texas at mid-week, touring the new Texas Farm Bureau headquarters in Waco and visiting Temple agriculture offices with Cong. W. R. Poage.

It was Secretary Butz' first visit to the Central Texas area since being named to the post from a deanship at Purdue University.

He visited the Grasslands - Forage Research Center, USDA agriculture offices and heard Gov. Dolph Briscoe speak at Waco Convention Center Wednesday evening.

The Secretary saw the newest in facilities during this brief visit. He was another of a line of agriculture secretaries visiting in Central Texas area, beginning with Secretary Freeman in the early 1960s.

We hope he enjoyed his visit.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

OVER-THE-COUNTER DRUG POPPYCOCK

Senator Frank E. Moss (Utah) ". . . The public needs the truth about modern over-the-counter (OTC) drugs. . . I recently came across a newsletter . . . produced by an organization called Consumer Action Now (CAN) located in New York City. Because I believe that the public desperately needs such information, I ask unanimous consent that the newsletter be printed in the Record." (We include excerpts):

Analgesics, Mild.

Try aspirin first (It's not the "little nothing" of a drug that its everyday use might lead you to believe). Further, before you take a stronger pain killer, question your doctor about price, and risks. Keep aspirin away from children. (Flavored aspirin is the drug most frequently involved in childhood poisoning).

"Cold remedies"

First of all, none of these products are "remedies" in the sense that remedy implies cure. At best they help relieve symptoms—in itself a laudable goal—but one not to be confused with either cure or prevention, of which none exist.

Laxatives.

Americans are obsessed with "regularity." Doctors confirm that "regular" varies from person to person, and for some can be defined as once or twice a week. But who's counting? If you must take a laxative, the mildest they come is Milk of Magnesia.

Hemorrhoids are varicose veins in the worst possible place. Sometimes nothing "causes" them, they just happen. Usually, they go away by themselves in time, at least the minor ones. OTC suppositories are considered by themselves useless. Occasionally, external hemorrhoids may require surgery.

(For readers interested in the full detailed report that includes, Antihistamines; Barbiturates; Skin Creams; Sleeping Pills; Stimulates; Amphetamines and Tranquilizers we refer them to Issue No. 71 of the Congressional Record).

1975 Revenue Needs May Reach $700 Million

By Bill Boykin

While the 1973 Legislature managed to avoid a tax bill, outlook for 1975 is "bleak," with new revenue needs ranging up to $700 million, according to Texas Research League.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby earlier came up with a similar gloomy estimate of a $533 million tax boost during the next regular legislative session, but Gove. Dolph Briscoe declined to agree.

According to Texas Research League, state spending from key funds is expected to increase by $550 million in 1976-77, and the increase could run as high as $850 million to $1 billion.

Revenues, meanwhile, are due to rise $550 million to $625 million over the present biennium.

However, TRL cautions these factors must also be considered:

Federal revenue sharing funds (which accounted for $316 million of 1974-75 income) will drop by at least $100 million, because Texas received a three-year allocation to spend in a two-year period for the current budget.

An estimated $156 million surplus at the beginning of the next biennium will decrease from $75 million-to-$100 million depending on bills signed by Governor Briscoe.

"With the highest projected spending increase ($1.050 billion), the 1975 Legislature apparently would find itself faced with the need to find $600-$700 million in additional biennial revenues," said a new TRL report. "Even (an $850 million spending hike), means projecting a biennial revenue need of $400-$500 million."

If the next legislature decides to overhaul school finance formulas, a biennial cost increase of perhaps another $300 million can be anticipated, TRL concluded.

Briscoe, at the national governors conference in Nevada, refused to be pessimistic and promised budgeting innovations and other economy moves which he feels can check a tax boost.

DIM VIEW OF CHANGE

County officials are getting together to fight any constitutional change which would drastically alter county government, according to Judge Robert W. Calvert, chairman of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission.

Following hearings in Corpus Christi, Calvert said he sees "an incipient opposition to any suggested changes in county government."

He cited three letters from county officials expressing a dim view toward tampering with their jobs. Calvert said the Commission is committed to no course on the subject.

The 37-member body is concluding its hearings over the state and will make recommendations to the legislature next November. Lawmakers will sit as a constitutional convention next year. Calvert urged legislators to attend the hearings in eight cities this month. Committees will begin drafts on conclusion of the public discussions.

The remainder of the constitutional hearings are set as follows: Friday, June 16, Beaumont, Orange and Port Arthur; Thursday, June 21, Abilene; Friday, June 22, Wichita Falls; Thursday, June 28, Waco; and Friday, June 29, Austin.

COURTS SPEAK

Unsafe conditions in public housing units are grounds for suits where tenants are injured, the State Supreme Court held in a case growing out of a death due to a defective heater.

In another case, the High Court upheld lower court judgements of $107,500 in damages against Mobil Pipeline Company on behalf of the family of a Mobil Oil Company employee who died in a Beaumont explosion.

The U.S. Supreme Court in Washington, meanwhile, upheld a Texas law requiring immunization of school children against several diseases. The top court ruled 7-2 that states cannot indirectly tax liquor sales on U. S. military bases.

AG OPINIONS

County commissioners can spend county funds to provide for parking and a service building for county-woned vehicles and parking for the public having business in the courthouse, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

In an election contest, on notice of appeal, district clerks should prepare a transcript and forward it to the court of civil appeals clerk before delivering it to attorneys for the appellant.

The Board of Chiropractic Examiners can adopt rules limiting the size of newspaper advertisements by chiropractors.

County clerks are not authorized to set filing fees for discovery proceedings if an action is still pending on the docket at the time the proceedings are instituted. If no action is pending on the docket at the time the proceedings are instituted. If no action is pending ,clerks are entitled to a fee of $3 for each insturment issued but not for filing insturments prepared by others.

SPEAKER'S RACE

Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, 44, veteran of a decade of service in the House of Representatives, made his candidacy for speaker official last week. Clayton is a conservative Democrat.

Other candidates include Reps. Fred Head of Troup, James Nugent of Kerrville, Carl Parker of Port Arthur and Dave Finney of Fort Worth. Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi is also regarded as another strong possibility.

APPOINTMENTS

Tom Browning of Athens was named acting director of the Parks and Wildlife Department law enforcement division after Executive Director Clayton T. Garrison fired Stetson Reed.

Governor Briscoe designated Ronald Thomason of Weatherford as Texas State Artist for 1973-74.

Elry N. Hardy of Wichita Falls has been picked as outstanding veterans employment representative for 1973.

Dale Steitle of Austin is new administrative assistant on the Texas Mass Transportation Commission staff.

EMPLOYMENT STEADY

Unemployment in Texas remained at 2.8 per cent during April.

Texas Employment Commission said the jobless rate has remained the same for three straight months--the first time that has happened.

The 1972 rate for the same time of year was 3.3 per cent.

About 139,500 Texans were job hunting in mid-April. Lubbock and Austin had the lowest rates of unemployment--1.7 per cent and 1.8 per cent.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper an insurance salesman dropped in my front yard while he was trying to out-run my dog to his car, many manufacturing plants around the world are experimenting with numerous variations of the 5-day work week.

Under the 4-day week, a person works four 10-hour days a week, has the other 3 days off. Some firms are going even further, having their employees work three 12-hour days a week, and some are toying with the idea of every other week, or in some rare cases every other month.

This is a step in the right direction, but what I'm waiting for is a job you have to work at only every other year.

In regard to the 4-day work week, some government employees already have been put on such a schedule, but now some smart-alec has come along with the argument that you could get the same amount of work done and save money to boot by dropping out of every 6 workers and have the remaining 4 work 6 days a week.

This is striking at the very heart of the economic system, the government, and possibly the Constitution itself.

You may think 4 people can do the work of 6, but that's because you don't understand government. You don't understand the theory of full employment. Why do you think 7 men were used to burglarize the Watergate when 2 could have done the job just as well? You trying to increase unemployment?

Or take the U. S. Senate. If two Senators can represent the 15 million or so people in the state of New York, how, under this work theory, can you justify having two represent the state of South Dakota with only about 800,000 people? And both pairs at the same salary. You want to cut the Senate half in two?

You can see where this theory will lead you. Let's leave bad enough alone.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

Increased Costs Present Problems To Retirees

COLLEGE STATION

Stretching retirement dollar to meet needs and wants poses a stumbling block to persons on fixed incomes.

"Increased costs--especially those of food and medical care--are making it harder for retired persons to make ends meet," Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, reported.

Simply parting with some long-held asset often will help ease the strain.

"It's a good idea to take inventory of all assets to see where you stand," she advised.

"There comes a time in everyone's life when it's a good idea to 'dis-save.' That is start using up some of the accumulated assets you've strived so hard to retain."

Many older persons have saved for that "rainy day" and are so afraid times will get worse, they refuse to cash in any asset, the specialist asserted.

"With other retirees, it's a different story. Assets are limited, or there aren't any at all.

"Stretching a small retirement pension or welfare check to last 30 days is almost impossible.

"However planning the use of income before it's spent can help anyone do a better job."

Turning to specific budget plans, Mrs. Myers suggested listing regular income--including payments from a retirement system, social security benefits, pensions or veterans benefits, and other sources, such as help from relatives. Also money from hobbies or part time work.

"Be sure to list all money that comes in during any given period.

"Next list all fixed expenses, such as rent or mortgage payment, taxes, insurance and debt payments.

"Then list variable items and their cost, such as food, household operation and maintenance, medical care and clothing.

"This list may be very long, but for a true spending plan, all items must be included."

She directed the budget-maker to look over items carefully and cut down or eliminate items, if necessary, to make expenses and income balance.

"When money is short, more drastic cuts have to be made.

"Be sure to include enough money to provide adequate nutrition--without proper food the medical expenses are sure to increase."

Mrs. Myers also suggested getting a copy of the ted getting a copy of the bulletin, "A Guide to Budgeting for the Retired Couple," House and Garden Bulletin No. 194, United States Department of Agriculture.

These are available at the local County Extension Agent's office or can be ordered from Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Diseases Attacking Grain Sorghum Crop In Texas

Diseases are hitting the grain sorghum crop in various parts of Texas and producers are urged to keep a close check on their crop as the season progresses.

The main disease culprits showing up at the present time are downy mildew and maize dwarf mosiaic virus (MDMV).

"Producers should take a critical look at their crop to see if either of these diseases is attacking plants," says Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They can overcome the disease problem by planting a resistant variety next year.

"In other words, the farmer needs to take a business-like approach to the matter with an eye on next year. He needs to keep notes of any disease and other problems he is having this year in order to do a better job next year."

MDMV is generally recognized by mottled upper leaves of plants, explains the Texas A&M University specialist. There are certain hybrids that are more susceptible to this disease and some show a prominent red leaf when temperatures range below 60 degrees.

The virus lives in the rhizomes (underground stems) of Johnsongrass and is transmitted by aphids to corn and grain sorghum.

MDMV will not produce sterility but grain yields will be reduced depending on the degree of infection. Losses are generally heavier when the disease appears when the crop is young, points out Horne.

Downy mildew is identified by the striping of a plant's leaves. The striping is prominent and can be easily identified by someone familiar with the disease.

Horne notes that this disease is serious in that it causes sterility in the plant-in other words, the plant either does not produce a head or produces a head that does not bear grain.

"County agents can assist producers in identifying these diseases and can provide information on resistant varieties for next year's crop," says Horne. "The diseases will continue to become more severe with continued use of susceptible hybrids."

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have conducted numerous field studies in the past few years, using almost 200 hybrids, to determine the degree of disease resistance of each at certain locations in the state. This information is available at any county Extension office.

Farm Leader Calls For Special Session

In a speech before a Stephenville farm audience, Texas Farmers Union president, Jay Naman of Waco, called on Governor Dolph Briscoe to convene a special session of the legislature to deal with the financing of the public school system and the farm fuel crisis.

Addressing the monthly meeting of the Erath County Farmers Union, Naman pointed out that the excessive property taxes which are being levied on agricultural land are imposing a discriminatory burden on farm and ranch producers. He pointed out that "the educational demands of the rural areas are becoming increasingly difficult to meet with the antiquated property tax structure."

Turning to the farm fuel problem, the farm leader said, "Reports of farm fuel shortages are becoming increasingly apparent as we move into the harvest season. It is obvious that unless some strong measures are taken by the federal government or by our state legislature, we could find the completion of harvest seriously hampered."

Pest Managment To Play Key Role In Agriculture

Dr. John G. Thomas, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, believes that pest management programs will play a key role in the future of Texas agrriculture.

Thomas has returned to Texas A&M University after completing a year's leave with the Extension Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, where he worked with pest management programs.

"Based on the success of cotton pest management programs, we have designed similar programs for peanut and grain sorghum producers. These programs utilize the most current technology, including biollgical and cultural control and the judicious use of pesticides, in maximizing effective control and economic returns," Thomas said.

"We have at our disposal many new concepts in pest control that can be applied effectively and efficiently while at the same time keeping in mind the critical need for environmental protection."

Dr. John E. Hutchinson, Extension Service director, noted that federal finds were received recently by the state agency to support the ongoing pest management programs in cotton and to initiate similar pilot programs in peanuts and grain sorghum.

The Extension Service and cooperating producers are also providing funds in support of the pest management efforts, Hutchison added.

Fir Prolific

In the Northwest's Douglas fir region, 60 percent of the commercial forest lands can grow 800 board feet or more per acre annually. This growth in 18 years provides lumber and plywood for an average size house.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has appointed a resource development specialist in the field of commercial recreation. He is Micheal E. Berger who will be located at Texas A&M University. Berger will be responsible for developing educational programs in recreation throughout Texas.

4-H ECOLOGY CONFAB

Some 100 4-H boys and girls and adult leaders will take a closer look at ecology and the use of natural resources during the seventh annual 4-H Ecology Conference. The event is slated for June 19-22 at the H. E. Butt Foundation Camp at Leakey. Group discussions will center around enviromental quality, forestry, outdoor recreation, range, soil and water, and wildlife.

Dike in Hopkins County placed third and Zephyr in Brown County came in fourth. The program is sponsored by the electric utility companies of Texas and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

June is Dairy Month... Hay Baling In Full Swing... Herbicide Warning... Keep Those Samples Coming.

Among other things, June is Dairy Month. It's a time when dairy producers are hoping everyone remembers to drink an extra glass of milk each day, not just through June, but throughout the year.

Dairy producers in Texas continue to be caught in the middle of a tightening cost-price squeeze. Even though their prices have shown some increase, their production costs have been soaring. Feed costs now are double from that of a year ago.

Dairy association spokesmen are worried about a reduction in production of milk. Reports from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service note that there has been a reduction of almost two per cent during the first four months of this year. Dairymen are faced with rising production costs and a good market for dairy cows at their local auction markets.

The dairy industry is an important part of Texas agriculture picture. Texas ranks among the top 10 states in the nation in total production of milk; almost 3.5 billion pounds of milk were produced in Texas during 1972. Texas also is in the top 10 states in the nation in milk cow numbers with 360,000 head as of January 1.

Texas dairy producers now total about 4,000.

Top counties in milk production in Texas are Hopkins Erath, Wise, Grimes, Johnson, Tarrant, El Paso, Parker, Bexar, and McLennan.

Milk, any dairyman will tell you, is Nature's most perfect food. So, now is the time to enjoy summer with extra helpings of dairy products.

HAY baling is now in full swing throughout the state. Baling was off to a slow start due to the weather, but a good hay crop is expected in most sections of Texas.

Range and pasture conditions are good to excellent but moisture is needed to maintain present levels of grazing

REMINDERS are being issued to users of 2,4-D and other hormone-type herbicides about their use during this time of year. Cotton is growing throughout the state, and that crop as well as many other is highly susceptible to herbicide drift.

If you're using 2,4-D or other such type herbicides, be sure not to use it if the wind velocity is above 10 miles per hour. The herbicide can drift several miles.

Herbicides such as 2,4-D are valuable production tools for agricultural producers but they must also be used with care and concern.

About a third of the state's counties are regulated under the Texas herbicide law.

KEEP those screwworm samples coming to the fly lab at Mission, officials request. Texas is now experiencing one of its lightest years on record in number of screwworm cases.

The number of cases this year compared to last year is ten times less. Many livestock producers were fearful last year when the screwworm was completely out of control that the pest would never again be controlled.

But the screwworm infestations are light this year, and that's due in part to continued reporting of suspected cases by livestock producers throughout the state. This enables officials with the program to counterattack the infestations and wipe them out before they can increase.

The screwworm eradication program in Mexico is also making progress, officials note. Through a cooperative effort between the United States and Mexico, the screwworm will be eradicated in Mexico.

Field Day Planned At Texas A&M Plantation

A field day has been set at the Texas A&M University Plantation for July 6 beginning at 3:30 p.m.

The plantation, in operation since the early 1940's, covers more than 3,000 acres in Burleson County. Headquarters are located on Farm Road 50, two miles south of the intersection of Farm Roads 50 and 60.

Operating as a commercial demonstration farm for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of the Texas A&M University System, the plantation uses the latest research information and techniques and is a self-sustaining operation.

According to A.A. Melton, assistant professor for the Experiment Station and plantation manager, the field day will feature attractions especially of interest to agricultural producers in Burleson and the surrounding 14-county area.

Highlighting a field tour will be discussions on grass production, chemical weed control in cotton, twin seed grain sorghum, new tillage techniques, cotton variety testing and commercial beef cattle crosses.

Tour speakers will include the following Experiment Station researchers: Dr. O. D. Butler, head of the Department of Animal Science; Dr. Bill Ellis, animal nutritionist; Dr. Luther Bird, plant pathologist; Dr. Ford Eastin, weed scientist; Dr. Ethan Holt, forage scientist; Fred Miller, grain sorghum scientist; and Lambert Wilkes, scientist in power machinery.

The field day will also feature information booths manned by specialists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Experiment Station scientists. Melton encourages all producers to bring questions on any phase of their crop and livestock operations to the experts.

A dutch treat barbecue will conclude field day activities. Tickets are available at $2.50 each from the county Extension offices in Brazos and surrounding county Extension offices in counties and from the district 10 Extension Office, Texas A&M University, Faculty Mail Service Box 143, College Station, Texas 77843.

Record Logged

U.S. and Canadian sawmills supplied 40 billion board feet of softwood lumber last year for use in this country, a new record. Only about 50 percent went into new housing.

Flood warning!

In 1971, the high waters of Hurricane Fern brought widespread, costly destruction to the Gulf Coast.

In 1972, the most brutal storm in United States' history lashed flood waters through six eastern states.

In 1973, surging waters from the accumulated runoff of melting snow and spring rains ravaged valuable farmlands in several southern states.

Are you protected?

Today, many Texas counties, cities, towns and villages are eligible for special flood insurance under the auspices of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the National Flood Insurers Association.

Different programs are available for different areas. Protection is available for homeowners, for tenants, for owners of small businesses and for general property. To find out if you are eligible for this special flood coverage, call any local agent, broker or company licensed to do business in your area.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

One of the most difficult, and most time-consuming, tasks of the Attorney General's office is carrying out the duty of collecting state sales taxes after they have been certified "delinquent" by the State Comptroller.

Thirteen of the 108 attorneys in my department, and about one fourth of our 91 clerical personnel work on this problem in the Taxation Division.

It is a problem. And I believe it's one which directly effects the consumer, since you (and me and my family, and every Texan) are the ones who pay this tax, and you should be the one to reap the benefits of the revenues it produces.

Many of us resisted the idea of the sales tax when it was first introduced in Texas 12 years ago. And when the one-percent city sales tax was added, and when the State tax went up to four per cent, we fussed a lot more.

But there is no way around the fact that our sales taxes do pay for a large part of the public services which are available. In 1972, net State revenues from sales taxes paid into the treasury provided $818,172,597---nearly one billion dollars--for education, public helath, agricultural programs, oil and gas regulation, judicial, and legal and regulatory services.

In addition to that, the revenue-hungry city governments which levy one cent of every five sales-tax pennies paid received some $178 million in sales tax shares to provide local services.

While the great majority-at least 95 percent--of businessmen who have the responsibility of collecting sales taxes from the consumer have been passing them on to the State of Texas every three months as required, there has been a small, but significant, number of sales tax permittees who have not.

The State Comptroller attempts to collect from them, and if that does not produce payment, he certifies the tax as "delinquent," so the Attorney General's office can take action.

Limited Shortage Of Gas In State

Gasoline shortages around Texas are presenting only limited problems for the state's motorists. This was the major finding of a statewide fuel report survey taken by the American Automobile Association (AAA) on Thursday, June 7.

Retail gasoline stations in 32 cities and towns around the state were involved in the telephone survey. A total of 101 stations were contacted.

Only four per cent of the stations contacted indicated they were allocating or rationing gasoline. Thirty per cent of the stations reported the recent changing of hours of operation by closing earlier each day and/or closing on Sundays. The change in operational schedule is attributed to the gasoline shortage.

Sixteen oil companies were included in the survey: Gulf, Mobil, Texaco, Exxon, Chevron, Phillips, Shamrock, Billups, Fina, Shell, Texgas, Champlin, Arco, Conoco, Skelly, and Hudson.

The AAA survey revealed that the statewide price of regualr gasoline ranged from 30.9 to 40.9 and the price of premium went from 33.9 to 42.9. Gasoline was priced highest in the Panhandle area of the state.

Most stations contacted reported present supplies of low lead gasoline, but many station owners and managers said they expected to run out of low lead fuel by the end of the month. In late May, many stations across Texas found themselves unable to get enough low lead gasoline.

Seventy-three percent of the stations reported receiving at least as much gasoline from their supplier as last year. In several cases, stations said that they had been able to receive more fuel than what was purchased a year ago. The remaining stations reported cutbacks ranging from ten to fifty per cent less than received during 1972.

Smoke Flavor Sparks Shrimp

Smoked fish is a widely enjoyed method of preparation, but how about delicately flavored shrimp? Do they lend themselves to smoking?

"You bet," says seafood home economist Cindy Gray of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"Cooking shrimp over the coals may be the best thing that ever happened to them," says Miss Gray. A hooded grill holds in the smoke and imparts an unbelievabley delicious flavor to the little critters.

One encounter with smoked shrimp, says Miss Gray, and you will be glad that shrimp are available year-round in Texas. The Texas Gulf Cost produced 100 million pounds of shrimp last year.

Try the recipe below, and you will be ready for more smoked seafood ideas. They're available from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department by writing: "Smoked Fish Recipes," Texas Parks and Wildlife Departmen, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

SMOKED JUMBO SHRIMP

@ 2 pounds of raw jumbo Gulf shrimp, peeled and cleaned
1/2 cup buttery-flavored vegetable oil
Seasoned salt

Place shrimp on well-greased outdoor grill over low coals. Brush shrimp with oil and sprinkle with seasoned salt. Close hood and smoke for 15 minutes. Turn shrimp over and baste, then smoke for four to five minutes longer. Serve with tartar sauce, remoulade sauce, or cocktail sauce. Makes six servings.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Lots of bass fishermen consider trolling as a lazyman's method of angling.

Well, I guess they are right. It's easy to troll, it's fun, you stir up enough breeze to keep cool and more often than not you catch fish (even with artificial bait).

But, the best luck we've had in trolling has been with live minnows and a minnow sock.

You may never have heard of a minnow sock. They are seldom seen in Texas. It's a Canadian invention, and very popular in the Provinces.

Anyway, I'm sure you've seen Japanese handcuffs, and a minnow sock works on the same principle. For those who don't know—the Japanese handcuff is simply a wicker tube with a criss-cross weave. Trick is to insert the middle finger of one hand into one end of the wicker tube and the middle finger on the other hand into the other end of the tube. And that's it.

You're handcuffed then and there, my friend, because it's impossible to get your fingers out. The harder you pull the tighter they fit. A handcuff without keys. How's that for cleverness?

The minnow sock is not made of wicker but of nylon fishing line. You slip the head and body of the minnow into the sock—leaving the tail free to wiggle. Outside the sock is a hook, positioned alongside the live minnow. You simply tie your fishing line to the eye of the hook, add enough lead weight to the line to keep the bait down to the preferred depth—and a trolling you go.

Don't let the fact that "socks" are not available keep you from trolling. There's an even lazier way to catch fish. Simply rig up your gear as you would for casting the plastic worm, drive your boat into the wind over some likely area, then drop your bait down to the bottom, cut off your motor and let the wind blow you over the hot spot. You'll find that float fishing with the plastic worm often works when nothing else will.

It's easier on the angler, easier on the boat, easier on the motor and easier on the purse. But it gets hot as Hades in the Summertime when the sun bears down.

However, the fish are cool. They're right down there on the bottom—away from that hot summer sun. So go after 'em!

Baptist Youth Festival

GALVESTON

Over 3,000 young people from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma are expected to participate in the fourth annual Baptist Youth Festival to be held at Galveston's Sea-Arama Marineworld and slated for July 28.

Activities scheduled for the youth festival include a special beach blitz and starlight crusade to be held at Sea-Arama's lake that evening.

Former POW, Capt. James Ray, member of the First Baptist Church of Conroe, Texas, and Reverend Jack Taylor, Pastor of Castle Hills First Baptist Church of San Antonio, will be special guests for the evening crusade. There will be no charge for the crusade being held at Sea-Arama.

Taylor has a special message dealing with the problems of young people. Taylor's publications include Key to Triumphant Living, Much More, and Victory Over the Devil.

According to Ralph McPheeters, Director of Special Events for the Galveston attraction, Sea-Arama expects this year's festival to be the most successful ever held at the park.

MANDATORY MEDIOCRITY

Come on, now, Frank.

Frank Broyles, Arkansas' successful football coach, may not have completely intended such but he gave aid-and-comfort to The Losers when revealing his plan for restricting college football scholarships.

Broyles, you recall, sez let the previous season's champion have, say 20 scholarships, the Runner up 25, Third Placer 30, Fourth 35, Fifth 40, etc. You know, make college football as nameless and as mediocre as the American League.

They took Freedom of Choice out of Baseball and put in that Mandatory, Reverse-Order draft and what do you have? Oh, yes, the talent is spread a little better. But, it took away most of the chance to build a really Super Team and people are just not going to get excited about anything less.

They rewarded The Loser and penalized The Winner in Major League Baseball, ereadicated the Yankee Empire and those great Dodger teams. And, admit it, Baseball has not been the same since.

Friend, that non-competitive attitude of rewarding The Loser of spreading the talent by fiat-is counter productive. And, it will ruin college football just as certainly as it robs an individual of his pride to put him on the dole.

While it is pretty American to pull for the Underdog, this is also a country of Hero-Worshipers: We may not always like The Winner, but we still put him on a pedestal, nevertheless.

LOSERS NO HEROES:

Americans admire A Winner...And, die trying to beat him. Or, they struggle to climb up and sit along side of him. Or, wish it for their children.

But, to legislate The Champ 'out,' to win a title in the Conference Board-of-Directors Room is not looked upon with great favor. That's srort of Unclean. There is a difference between awarding a World Series ring to a Mickey Mantle or one to a Gene Tenace, you know.

It strains on's credulity to assume that Broyles would be making such a suggestion had his Razorbacks just won five consecutive Southwest Conference Football Championships.

Indeed, Frantic Frank didn't breathe a word of that Method of Mediocrity back there in the Mid-Sixties when his Fayetteville Flock had the Southwest Conference under a Big Red Razorback Siege.

In fact, if Broyles' Hogs do as well as Little Rock Writer Orville Henry expects 'em to this fall, Frank will drop that bit in a hurry.

You see, Frank Broyles "Aint no Loser."

CTC Clinches Tennis Tourney

Central Texas College of Killeen clinched the National Junior College Tennis Tournament championship Wednesday with double victories. The title followed four years of near misses. In its previous national appearances, CTC had finished fourth, third, fifth, and second.

CTC beat Miami-Dade North, Fla., Junior College, co-leader Tuesday, in back-to-back matches for a 21 point total score. The wins put CTC out of the reach of Miami-Dade and Navarro Junior College of Corsicana, both tied for second with 16 points. Defending champion, Mesa, Ariz., had 13, Lake City 8, and Central Florida 7.

"It's what we've been working for for years," said CTC Coach Byrl Clayton. "There were some good teams here. But there wan't one of our guys that gave up an inch. They returned winners for winners all through the tournament."

A good babysitter needs a lot more than a way with kids

Of course a babysitter should like children. And like taking care of them. But the job also involves some pretty big responsibilities.

Caring for little ones means being able to handle just about any emergency. Because emergencies often require the use of the telephone, a handy list of important numbers can do wonders for your sitter's confidence.

So write down the phone numbers for fire, police, medical assistance and the places you'll be while out. Keep the list right next to the phone, and remember to call home if your plans change.

Dave calls this his wedding picture. He was best man when Jane and I were married, and a prouder boy you'll never see.

He loved Jane from the first. He never thought of her as a stepmother.

Jane's zest for life, her merry ways, her love for God were happily contagious. The unhappy years we'd known faded. Soon we were marching off to church with her as though it were our own idea.

Tomorrow Dave will be married, and I'll be his best man. He and Susan are a fine couple. Jane and I don't worry about their marriage. Their relationship has a depth that comes from a mutual love for God and His Church. In the years ahead, their church will be a bedrock of understanding and strength.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control..."

Texas Power & Light Company has a long, solid history of providing its customers with reliable electric power at the lowest price consistent with good service. The Company wants electricity to always be one of the biggest bargains in your budget.

However, there are circumstances beyond our control which indicate future electric rate increases are inevitable.

Higher Cost of Fuels The diminishing supply of natural gas and fuel oil has pushed the prices of these generating plant fuels to new highs and is significantly increasing the cost of producing electricity. TP&L's fuel bill was over $40 million last year, 30% higher than in 1971, and it's expected to be even higher in 1973.

Higher Cost of Construction Because of today's energy crisis, new generating plants must be built to operate with other fuels, such as lignite and nuclear materials. These plants are much more costly to build than gas-fueled ones, but to assure you an ample supply of electric power in the future, construction of new facilities is essential—and must be done even though TP&L faces additional rising costs for labor, materials and land.

Higher Cost of Financing The rising cost of money needed to finance new plants and other facilities has been increasing at a staggering rate.

All of these circumstances are beyond our control—and they make producing your electricity much costlier than ever before. However, TP&L will continue to use every practical method and every possible efficiency to keep the price of electricity low and still provide you with dependable electric service in the years ahead.

Make Strawberry Cake For Cupid's Special

Strawberry Jam Cake, a heart winning dessert any time, will make a delicious homemade valentine for that certain someone at your house. Strawberry preserves brighten the batter and flavor the crumb of the cake.

Strawberry Jam Cake

3 cups sifted flour
3 tablesspoons cocoa
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅔ cup lard
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup strawberry preserves
1 cup sour milk
½ cup chopped pecans

Sift dry ingredients. Cream together lard and sugar until light. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Add strawberry preserves and beat to blend. Add dry ingredients alternately with sour milk, stirring to combine. Fold in pecans and pour batter into 3 waxed paper lined 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Cool 5 minutes, remove cake from pans and frost layers, top and sides.

Creamy Fromage Frosting

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
1 to 2 tablespoons milk

Cream cheese until light. Add vanilla and alternately cream in sugar and milk, using enough milk for spreading consistency.

Great on Grill

Beef offers a variety of cuts for outdoor grill-top cookery. Tender steaks such as Porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, club, rib and rib eye are ideal for broiling, but they're not the only choice. Marinated blade steaks, top round and cubed steaks are also appropriate selections. Tender cubes of beef for kabobs as well as ground beef for plain and fancy beefburgers are other good market choices for the grill.

TENDERIZERS

Whatever the cut, however it is prepared, all meat you cook should be tender—easy to cut and easy to eat. How can you make sure the meat you serve is tender, even the less-expensive cuts? The best way is to buy the best-quality P.S. beef available. For those extra-special occasions, such as Father's Day when economy is not the prime factor, select those tender loin and rib steaks and roasts. But, when economy is important, choose from the less-tender cuts. Less-tender cuts have more connective tissue and come from parts of the animal which had more direct exercise.

In addition to learning about the locations of cuts of meat and proper cooking methods, you can help tenderize some cuts before cooking. One method is to marinate, which adds flavor as it aids tenderizing.

Marinades traditionally contain an acidic ingredient, salad oil and seasonings. Many people feel it is the acidic reaction on the meat which helps soften the connective tissue. Remember, since marinades are acidic, use only glass, stainless steel or plastic to marinate the meat. If the meat is to be marinated for more than a couple of hours, it should be covered and refrigerated.
